BELLUM AETERNUS: AN INTRODUCTION

The Bellum Aeternus or “Eternal War” when translated to crude pre-gothic language know as Aen-Glish is the title of a series of contests waged amongst the Emperor’s praetorians, the legions of the space marines. The series was born in that megalithic marvel of modern technology and gathering abode of space marines far and wide, The Bolter & Chainsword Forums. Introduced as a stimulus to the less active subforums to participate this was a direct challenge between two separate forums. The event was launched by the Dark Angels Forum in keeping with the status of their legion as the first legion.

In the main, it is a painting contest. However, this series was different from most painting contests in that the content to be painted was limited to one type of model or unit. The first of these is the Bellum Aeternus: Currus Belli or Chariots of War, where the Dark Angels challenged the might of the Sons of Guilliman for a contest that pitted their strengths in tracked armoured vehicles. This is the second such event Bellum Aeternus: Titanas Belli or Titans of War. This time we revisit the age old contest between the Sons of the Lion and the Wolf

AIMS:

1. To support, challenge and encourage the less active forums to a level parallel to that of the Dark Angels Forum.
2. To develop a sense of competitive camaraderie between the forums throughout the year.
3. To encourage even greater participation by the Dark Angels battle brothers.

PARTICIPANTS:

Anyone can participate on either side (or both if you so wish) but you may only submit armoured vehicles painted in the colours of Spacewolves, the official successors or your own DIY successors on the one side and the Dark Angels, the official successor chapters or your own DIY successors on the other side.

HOW TO ENTER:

On the 1st of May 2014 a specific thread will be open in the Spacewolves forum and the Dark Angels Forum only. Once this occurs you can post your oaths there.

To make an oath on the 1st of May, once the new thread is opened, you simply make a post with the starting image of your vehicle/s. The first post may be of the vehicle in any state of completion from just the sprues up to a fully completed vehicle with an undercoat. Only a single colour undercoat is allowed at the time of entry.

CHAPTER OR LEGION:

You may paint your vehicles in chapter colours or the two legion colours. It’s entirely your choice.

DURATION: Two Months.

FRI 1 May 2014: Acceptance of oaths

Fri 1 August 2014: End date

NUMBER OF OATHS:

No restriction for the number of oaths!

There is only one deadline, the 1st of August.

Those who complete their first oath can make a second one and so on.

You may submit as many models as you wish for each oath.

MAKE A SUBMISSION

You enter the event by making an oath below in this thread in the following manner and posting an image of the vehicle you wish to enter.

I <<insert your name here>> of the << insert your Chapter or Legion>> make an oath of moment to face my brothers from the Vlka Fenryka in an honourable contest of strength and will!
